

Wear Sunscreen
Cancer's a Beach!

A group of people sitting on a beach at sunset, looking out at the ocean. The scene is bathed in a warm, golden light from the setting sun, creating a soft and serene atmosphere. The people are dressed in casual summer attire, and their expressions are relaxed and content. The ocean stretches out to the horizon, and the sky is a mix of light blue and orange.

Each year there are more new cases of skin cancer than breast, prostate, lung and colon cancer.